Sunday the friends were invited at 12 o'clock and Rabbi David Karesh of Columbia was here for the occasion.

After the religious ceremony was over a delightful repast was served after which the guests left wishing for the young man a long and prosperous life.

FOR THE TEACHERS.

The reception given by the Parent-Teacher Association last Friday was a most delightful affair. The home of Miss May Robertson had been tendered for the occasion and the large rooms had been prettily decorated for the evening. The receiving line was made up of Miss Robertson, Major and Mrs. Fulp, Mrs. Henry Gilliam, president of the association, and the teachers. The young ladies made a most pleasing impression on the large crowd present while all the young ladies were "just crazy" about Professors Daniel and Hafner.

In the dining room Mrs. C. A. Milford and Mrs. T. G. White served cream from a beautifully appointed table, assisted by many of the mothers who are interested in the welfare of the schools. Punch was served on the porch, one bowl being presided over by young people and the other by several married ladies.

The success of the entertainment was due to the untiring work of the committee, Mrs. McMurray, chairman, Mrs. Philson, Miss Robertson and others.

BELL—SEAWRIGHT

Of interest to a large number of their friends throughout the county will be the news of the marriage Tuesday at home of the bride's uncle John R. McGee, of Due West, of Miss Claudia Bell to Carrol Seawright. The Rev. Mr. Coker, pastor of the Baptist church, performed the ceremony, using the ring service.

The McGee home was beautifully decorated for the occasion, a color scheme of yellow and white being used. Black-eyed-susans were the predominant flowers, adding their yellow beauty through the subdued glow of many candles.

The ceremony was performed before an improvised altar, banked with fern and yellow flowers, and back of which glowed a lighted taper. The bride entered with her brother, William Bell of Gaffney, while the best man was the bridegroom's brother. The ushers were the Wakefield children while the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Furman McGee carried the ring in the heart of a calla lily.

Following the ceremony a short reception was held, the yellow and white color scheme being carried out in the refreshments of cream and cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Seawright left immediately after the ceremony for Kansas City where Mr. Seawright is connected in an important capacity with the Coca-Cola Company. They will live in Kansas City.
